Trip Overview

The Kopra Ridge Trek is not only one of the most alluring treks in the Annapurna Region, but also one of the best choices for someone wishing to try a short trekking route.

The trail is attractively located off of the beaten track, so whilst the Annapurna region itself is inundated with trekkers year round, a very limited number actually venture to the Kopra Ridge. So it is the perfect choice for anyone wanting a private journey through the still untouched himalayas.

Whilst it may be a less well known trek, it still offers all of the delights one could wish for from an Everest trekking experience, including local wildlife, panoramic mountain scenery, beautifully dense forest, an insight into Nepali culture and spirituality, and much more.

For the first two days of your trek, you will follow the popular Annapurna trail. However from the third day you will be taken off of the central route and diverted through dense forest and remote villages until you find yourself in the hidden spots located towards the Kopra Ridge (3,660m). Along the trail you can enjoy spectacular views of some of the world's most magnificent mountains, including the Dhaulagiri (8,167m), Annapurna I (8,091m), Annapurna II (7,937m), Macchapuchhre (6,997m), and the Nilgiri peaks (7,061m) – and all of this away from the crowds.

Not everyone has the time or the desire to trek for a full 25 days – so this 15 day trek is perfect for anyone wishing to experience the Annapurna Region on a time limit. However, as with all of our treks, this trip is fully customisable and can be done both in a group or as a private trek. So if you would like to know more about the different trek options, difficulty, or cost, then please get in touch with a member of our friendly team. Or, if you would like to read about what it is like to embark on such an experience, you can check out our Kopra Ridge blog.

And don't forget – if you like the sound of this trek, but it isn't quite what you had in mind, then please explore the wide range of other Everest treks, such as the Annapurna Circuit Trek, that we have to offer. Or get in touch and we will help find you your perfect trek!
